

Christianity is not a Theory—It is a “Truth” Far Surpassing the Thoughts and Actions of Any Man!

A Devotion by Sherry Cumby

Does Darwinism have a devastating effect on Christianity? The answer, “of course not.” There have been actions by the unbelievers and those opposed to Christianity to try and prove Christianity as a “myth” or thwart the efforts of the Christian movement for many centuries. There have been world leaders that have tried to destroy the Christian population and the Christian impact on the world. Nero and other leaders persecuted and killed Christian leaders and followers and the worship of Roman gods, mysticism, spiritualism, and other cults have tried to replace/displace Christianity over the centuries. However, Darwinism is found as another means to which the Christian must respond in faith and with a positive view. Charles Kingsley describes the impact of Darwin’s theory on Christianity as this, “Men find that now they have got rid of an interfering God—a master magician as I call it—they have to choose between the absolute empire of accident, and a living, immanent, ever-working God.”¹ The impact of the reasoning that man descended from monkeys and the suggestion that the world was not the work of a wise, loving Creator who had planned everything had its impact on Christianity only to those theologians and “so called” Christian followers that did not have a strong background or foundation in the truth of God’s Word and the belief that it (the Word) is inerrant and inspired by the Holy Spirit of God. God is not a term of scientific explanation. He is not one cause alongside other natural causes. God is there working in and through all that goes on in the world.

“Without faith, it is impossible to please Him (God), for He who comes to must believe that He is and that He is a rewarder of those who seek Him” (Hebrews 11:6).

There will always be another “Darwin” showing up on our doorstep and in the world in which we live. The Christian does not have to prove anything to the “Darwins” of the world. We know where we are going and we know how to get there. We have to remember—Faith is always above see level!

God is our refuge and in Him I trust!

How about you? Do you question God's way of entering this world, living in it, and the method of exiting it? Try God's way...You can't go wrong!
